GWB:

RE: Use of Statistics on Shipping to Cuba

I suggest that you cite as few figures as possible on shipping into Cuba. That may embroil you in impossible complications. The figures are, frankly, a mess. The problems include:

- different security classifications;
- different standards of preparation from different agencies;
- different time periods;
- confusion among "trips", "voyages", and "calls";
- different classifications and topics.

The results are not totally reconcilable.

The statement in your prepared text is substantially accurate. About two-thirds of the ships calling in Cuba during 1962 have been foreign flag. A little over one-half of the ships calling have either been Soviet ships or Free World ships chartered by the Soviet Union. About 60% of the foreign flag ships are Greek, UK, West German, and Norwegian--in that order.

I don't think you should say much more.
